NOTE FOR: D/DCI/IC

Sam:

It might well be that there will be another crack at the PFIAB Executive order and I thought I would give you my comments just in case such a "next crack" would be "rapid-fire" like the last one. I am looking specifically at paragraph 3. a., the last sentence thereof. I think to charge PFIAB with ensuring that investigations are conducted by proper authority is getting PFIAB into just what you were trying to avoid, that is, dipping into the management process. They can review such process and criticize, but to me it seems wrong that they should be charged with ensuring that proper actions are taken.
